TO MAKE BIG DRIVE FOR NON-UNION HELP

Many Union Miners Are Working In Non-Union Fields To Organize Them for Strike

(By Associated Press)
Indianapolis, Mar. 27—With plans complete for the nationwide coal strike, union leaders here today awaited developments in their program for a complete tie-up of the country's coal industry through their call to 200,000 non-union miners to join the half million union workers in suspension of work next Friday night. No action, however, is contemplated to be taken today at headquarters here, but district union officials bordering the non-union fields are expected to make formal calls for action on the part of non-union workers. The nature of the activities among non-union workers is left to the discretion of district leaders, but within each field it is understood the union already had many organizers who enrolled some time ago as non-union employees.

MORROW HURTS TWO NORMAL SCHOOLS

With His Veto of Additional Funds Allowed By Legislature—Uses Ax Freely

Although he permitted appropriations of $30,000 each for two new normal schools to "get by" Gov. Morrow Saturday knocked any chance of improvements at Eastern and Western Normal Schools in the head when he vetoed their additional appropriations of $27,000 each as made by the last legislature.

The governor also vetoed the allowance of $480 for expenses incurred by R. C. Oldham, democrat, in his contest of the seat of William Wallace to the Senate, as made by the Senate. The governor, however, allowed Wallace's expense account to stand. Wallace was the successful republican candidate, and was seated by a democratic senate.

The governor played havoc with a number of other appropriations of the legislature with his veto ax. Some departments, however, benefited, as they will operate under former appropriations scales higher than the new bill provided.

The University of Kentucky received the hardest cut at the hands of the executive, a total of $200,000, of which $240,000 had been added to the budget bills by the legislature, being lopped off. The eastern and western state normal schools each lost $54,000 added by the legislature.

The State Board of Charities and Corrections, the Department of Public Highways and the Adjutant General's office were restored to their 1920-22 appropriation by the executive veto, the veto merely applying to the year 1923-24 for the latter department.

The specific items vetoed in the budget bills were the University of Kentucky building fund of $100,000 a year; fund of $45,000 a year for payment of an old debt at the university; $27,000 a year at each of the normal schools for new buildings; the $1,250,000 appropriation for the State Board of Charities and Corrections; and the appropriation of $225,000 for the year 1923-24 and $200,000 for the year 1924-25 for the highway department.

The appropriation for the adjutant general's office for 1923-24 was vetoed because of an error made by the enrolling clerk which cut the funds of that department $17,500.

Other appropriations vetoed were Senate bill 96, appropriating $30,000 for completion of the Jefferson Davis monument at Fairview; House bill 195, appropriating $1,000 yearly for the Perryville battlefield; House bill 302 appropriating $15,000 for erection of a poultry house at the State fair; Senate bill 180, appropriating $15,000 a year for a survey of the rock asphalt and other mineral resources of the state; Senate resolution 25, appropriating $600 a year as a pension for William D. Overton, of Frankfort.

The governor's action on the state highway department's appropriation restores that department to the $250,000 a year appropriation for paying the expenses of the department. This sum was recommended by the budget committee but was cut by the assembly. The governor said that the amount allowed by the assembly was not sufficient.

Vetoes of 22 bills including 21 road projects, in addition to the appropriation bills vetoed, were announced at the office of Gov. Morrow Saturday. Besides the road projects and appropriation bills, the veto of House bill 435, increasing the pay of county court clerks for making out tax bills from five to seven cents.

In vetoing the road projects, the governor said that the assembly had "turned itself into a square court," and added road projects totalling more than 700 miles to the primary system but without providing any additional funds for road building.

TOOLS NARROW ON CAPERTON BANDITS

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., Mar. 27—John ("Jocko") McDevitt, 37, surrendered today after policemen besieged his home, with a warrant charging housebreaking, grand larceny and robbery. His arrest is the seventh in connection with the recent looting of the wine cellar of John H. Caperton's country home. McDevitt is a saloon proprietor and former election worker. He was arrested after a portion of the liquors was found Sunday at the home of his brother, Charles near Pewee Valley. The six other men in the tools include a former county jail guard and two men previously charged with having burglar tools in their possession.

Bonds for each of the seven men arrested were ordered in the sum of $20,000 each.

Police made no effort to check up the liquor which was piled high in the McDevitt cellar, but with the exception of a quantity of whisky, which has entirely disappeared, it is believed the liquors are intact.

A list of the loot, presumably checked up by the rum bandits, was found written on a piece of cardboard. It showed the cellar to contain eleven cases of cherry wine, seven cases of port wine, eighteen cases of Burgundy, one-half case of creme de menthe, one and one-half cases of Virginia Dare, three cases of Tokay, one-half case of rum, one case of Grenadine, ten cases of Vermouth, twenty-seven cases of foreign wines and four gallons of gin.

The liquor will be turned over to Caperton, who will execute bond for its appearance in court when the alleged bandits are tried.

WANT UNIFORMS FOR LEGION BAND

Plans are being discussed for a campaign to secure funds to furnish the Legion Band with uniforms. It has been suggested a subscription or Tag Day be employed to raise the needed funds which are not expected to exceed $300 or $400 at the most. The band, it is understood, will hold weekly concerts during the summer in the bandstand on the courthouse corner, which will be a very attractive event for everyone.

President R. E. Turley of the Chamber of Commerce, has already voiced his approval of the plan, and it is expected that the organization will give unanimous endorsement. It is conceded on all sides that Richmond has one of the finest amateur musical organizations in the state. With Jim Leeds leader, and the splendid talent that the local boys have developed, there isn't a band outside of the big cities that can approach it. There are about 15 regular members of the band and all their activities feel that it is but fitting and proper that they should be uniformed. The band will accompany the local Knight Templars to the convolve in Maysville, and on this occasion especially will need uniforms.

762 TAXPAYERS ARE NOTIFIED OF RAISES

Board of Supervisors Attempting To Comply With Orders of State Tax Commission

In attempting to comply with the mandate of the State Tax Commission to slap an increase of almost $2,000,000 in the assessment of the taxpayers of Madison county, the County Board of Supervisors have made raises on the property of 762 individuals. Notices of these raises have been served by Sheriff Deatherage and his deputies. There were only 400 notices sent out last year. Sheriff Deatherage thought he had a record list but ex-Deputy Sheriff Ed Warford said that the first year the Tax Commission slapped the big raise on Madison, Sheriff P. S. Whitlock's office had to serve 2,400 notices.

In several counties in the state serious talk is heard of resisting the order of the State Tax Commission to increase taxes so heavily on the people. In Shelby county the question is up. The Shelby News said about it: A number of citizens appeared before the County Board of Supervisors of Taxes last Thursday morning upon the invitation of the board to give their views in regard to the raise of $3,300,000 in the assessed valuation of the property in the county ordered by the State Tax Commission. Some expressed the belief that property was already assessed too high in comparison with its sale price and the value of agricultural products, and urged the Board not to attempt to add the big raise demanded. Others favored a moderate increase in an effort to satisfy the Frankfort board.

Those who spoke were Rufus L. Pickett, B. A. Thomas, Gilbert M. Veech, W. P. Johnson, E. B. Beard, County Judge Pollard, County Attorney Barrickman, E. J. Cline, J. Archie Bell, J. Sam Smith and Archie.

It is rumored that the board is divided on the question of adding the big raise, four members are said to be favoring it and three opposing it. Many citizens are outspoken against complying with the edict of the State Tax Commission and feel that the county board, after bringing up all valuations that are too low and adding omitted assessments should notify the Frankfort authorities that they can go no farther. If the State Board then sends a representative down here and increases the assessment of property to more than its worth it will be the first time they have resorted to such extreme measures since the present law has been in effect. If this policy is followed it can at least be said that the county board has done what it could to give justice to the citizens and taxpayers of the county and the blame for the unjust increase will be squarely on the shoulders of the State Tax Commission.

KENTUCKY RESPONDS NOBLY TO CALL

"Kentucky's campaign is going big," declared Col. Fred Levy, of Louisville, State Chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee's drive for $150,000 which is on this week.

"Never have I seen the enthusiasm and the zeal for work at a higher pitch throughout the state than is being shown now everywhere in Kentucky. Indications are that Kentucky will be enrolled in the list of states that have received and passed their quotas in the previous weeks of the nation wide campaign. National headquarters in New York City and zone headquarters in Chicago are watching Kentucky with great interest and we are going to show them what the state will do in response to such an appeal."

"One of the most remarkable features of the campaign is the splendid help given by the people of all faiths. I never saw a finer demonstration of fraternal spirit. In hundreds of communities throughout Kentucky the campaign is being conducted by non-Jews and in the cities and larger towns where there are Jewish organizations, the non-Jews are answering eagerly the call to aid."

"Wherever people learn the story of the 300,000 starving orphans and the 400,000 homeless, hungry, freezing families of Jewish refugees, there is an outpouring of pledges. Our speakers report that large audiences listen with breathless interest to the appeal of the starving and the destitute in Central and Eastern Europe."

"In this great work people of all faiths are urged to contribute. In the distribution of the funds in the famine stricken districts in Europe no question is asked as to the faith of those in need. Fully 30 per cent of the money we raise goes to non-Jews. It is a great cause and Kentucky is making a splendid response."

THREE MORE JAIL RAIDERS TRIALS START

Breathitt Circuit Court Has Already Convicted Two Who Attacked Officers

(By Associated Press)

Jackson, Ky., Mar. 27—Three men, charged with complicity in the attack on the Breathitt county jail on December 2, 1921, today are expected to go on trial here. They are Sam Grigsby, Luther Noble and Louis Watts.

The trio slated for trial will make a total of five members of the band of alleged jail raiders, to go on trial for the killing of Albert Roberts and Miss Maggie Allen, and the serious wounding of Mrs. Oscar Allen, wife of the jailer. Three alleged leaders of the band, Bud Noble and his sons Beecher and Soldier Noble, have never been caught.

Two of the men accused of the crime already have been tried and convicted. Tom Porter, a youth, was found guilty on January 3rd, and sentenced to life imprisonment, and on January 7, William Watts was found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair. Porter is now in the reformatory at Frankfort and Watts is in the death house at Eddyville.

The Breathitt county jail raid was brought about, it is alleged, by a desire of members of the Noble family to rescue Hargis and Willie Noble, Isaac Watts and Alton Grigsby, who were confined in the jail awaiting transportation to the prison at Frankfort. The men had been tried for the murder of Joe Napier and the Nobles and Grigsbys given life sentences and Watts two years.

On the day before the raid the Nobles had been moved to Winchester jail to await the result of efforts to obtain a new trial. It is believed, however, that their friends and relatives did not know of this.

Jailer A. A. Allen, whose term has since expired, went to the door when summoned by the armed band. He called to his son, Oscar, the deputy jailer, who was on the second floor. As Oscar opened the door of his room with the jail key in one hand a flashlight in the other, he noticed three men, one masked, standing on the stair landing. They pointed pistols at him and demanded the jail keys. He threw the keys into a dark room and the intruders opened fire. The first shot grazed Oscar Allen's head and knocked him down, thus probably preventing his being killed.

His wife, who was ill, got out of bed and rushed to the door begging the men not to kill her husband. One man grabbed her and holding a pistol against her abdomen fired a shot. Mrs. Allen is still alive but is not expected to live.

By this time Miss Allen, Albert Roberts, her cousin, entered the hallway with a pistol. He was shot three times, but emptied his pistol at the men who fired, and it is believed he wounded Bud Noble. Roberts died seven hours later.

Immediately after shooting troops were sent to Jackson by Gov. Morrow. They remained here for several weeks, guarding the jail and searching the hills for Soldier, Bud and Beecher Noble. At one time they sighted the men and it was thought had them cornered in a cave. Later, however, it was discovered that the men had escaped through a little known entrance.

When the trials of the men charged with complicity in the raid were started, soldiers stood guard and under orders of Judge Sam Hurst, searched every person entering the court room.
